

HyperMotion first appeared in the Real Football series, and was introduced in FIFA 2013 as a new engine feature, instantly improving the gameplay dynamics of the sport. In FIFA 14, it was combined with greater character intelligence, and in FIFA 15, players could exhibit their personality by setting character-specific preferences. FIFA 16 introduced something called “Vibe Motion,” which enhanced the atmosphere of each stadium, and the HyperMotion engine was used for player behavior to further enhance the game’s atmosphere and gameplay. In this year’s FIFA, HyperMotion combines with data collected from real-life players to improve the real-life player experience. The introduction of the new engine opens up a wide variety of game-changing gameplay ideas for the biggest team in the world. Moments to Remember The most talked about feature of FIFA 19 was “Moments to Remember.” A lasting legacy system that allows players to save and share memorable moments from the game with their friends. Moments to Remember takes place outside of game matches, but within the experience of a game. While watching live gameplay on your television, you’ll notice “Moments to Remember” pop up on-screen. The Moments to Remember function allows players to add YouTube videos they’ve already recorded themselves to the gameplay to create one of four special experiences: “Playback,” “Create a Goal,” “Play Uniquely” and “Play History.” To create a memorable Moments to Remember experience, you simply select the “Playback” option and choose a video of yourself in the game. Some of the most iconic moments of the game that have inspired fans and even players are available to share. FIFA 19 is the biggest and most complete entry in the FIFA series yet. With new stadiums, new multiplayer modes, and new experiences outside of the game, FIFA 19 offers the most realistic experience of any FIFA game to date. The game will be available October 27 on PlayStation 4, Xbox One and PC. Further information on FIFA 19 can be found at www.fifa.com/fifa19.
