What's New in the?

This is a utility that helps you display your external IP. You can also copy or refresh the IP to get updated information whenever you want. The main interface is simple and consists of the main window and a help section. You can do all the main functions in there. In the main window, there is a list with the available external IP, that can be refreshed to get a new list. Next to the list, there is also the IP address. In the bottom part, there is a list with other functions and settings. Log Viewer: You can see your logs by clicking on Log Viewer. Network Info Tool: With the help of this tool, you can see your MAC address, connection type, speed, operational status and IPv4/IPv6 support. You can also list a list of domains and specify the IP address, so that you can ping the site. With the help of the IP resolver, you can resolve a list of site URLs, showing the IP addresses in a dedicated panel. Settings: The Settings lets you configure the timer and thus set up the auto external IP check. It also lets you select the type of notification to be sent when the IP changes. You can for instance play a sound, send an email, start an application or simply issue a notification. + Show My IP Software is one of the easy to use tools displaying your external IP, while also offering a pack of extra utilities to get more information on your network connection. It's almost impossible to get lost in the main interface, mostly because it's all minimal and shows the external IP right in the main window. You can also copy or refresh the IP to get updated information whenever your want. But several other goodies are hiding under the "Tools" menu, where besides the "Log Viewer" and the "Settings" screen, you can also find a so-called "Network Info Tool". Specifically designed to get information on your network connection, this particular utility shows the MAC address, connection type, speed, operational status and IPv4/IPv6 support. While the Ping and the Trace Route Tools have pretty self-explanatory names, the IP address resolver can resolve a list of site URLs, showing the IP addresses in a dedicated panel right in the main window. The "Settings" menu is a must visit as well because it lets you configure the timer and thus set up the auto external IP check, but also the type of notifications to be sent once an IP change is detected. You can for instance play a sound, send an email, start an application or simply issue a notification.
